The College Selection Journey is a long and complicated one. You and your student will have to make a plan, apply to schools and make a decision during challenging economic times.

With the average cost of a higher education rising at three times the rate of inflation, it is no wonder many families are taking a long, hard look at their finances. Even if you do not qualify for financial aid, Merit-Based Scholarships need to be researched.

Even state school in New Jersey can end up costing well over $100,000 over the course of 4 years. Planning financially for your student's college education is more important than ever! But there are significant non-financial issues to consider as well.

KJM Financial is here to help! We will apply our twenty plus years of experience to your family's college planning situation. We can help your family create the best foundation for college success.
